

THE HERALD

Windsor Locks High School
Windsor Locks, CT 06096

Mr. Robert Santamaria was our vice principal and principal. He ruled our class with a stern hand, but he also befriended us. He was a hard working family man, who gave much to our school and community. He was there for us and he loved us. He helped to shape our class as well as our school. His absence will be deeply felt throughout the community. We, the class of 1992, dedicate this yearbook to our beloved principal and friend, Mr. Robert Santamaria, in hopes that his memory will live in our hearts forever.

It was just about dinner time when a tall, handsome stranger walked nervously into my office.

"I need your help, Jake Raider." He used the line that I had heard so many times before.

He proceeded to tell me his story. His name was Stephen Cullinan, and he was the new principal of Windsor Locks High School. He said he knew very little about the students at this school, particularly those in the graduating class. He wanted me to find out more.

I decided to take the case.

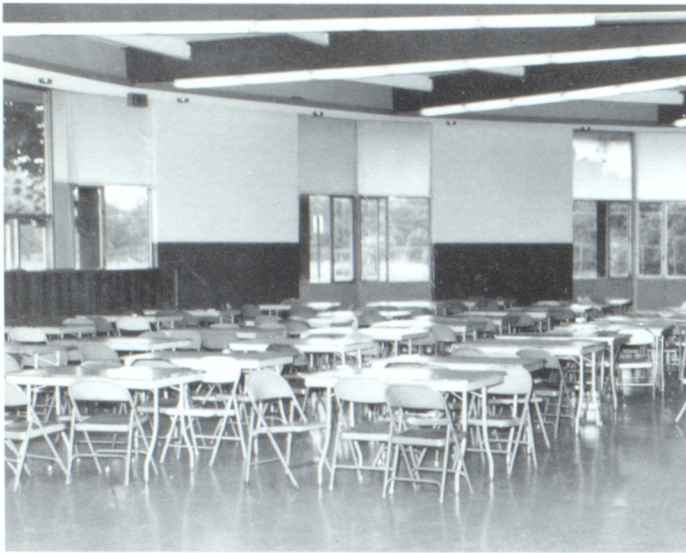

My first day on the case was a tough one. I scouted out the scene only to find the grounds deserted.

Apparently, I had arrived too late.

I tried again earlier the next day.
It seemed my timing was improving. The grounds began to come alive as more and more people arrived.

I was immediately struck by the way the people here added so much character to the empty school I had seen yesterday. It hardly seemed like the same place.

Then, in the distance, I saw who I was looking for.

On the third day of my investigation, I decided to observe the students in action.

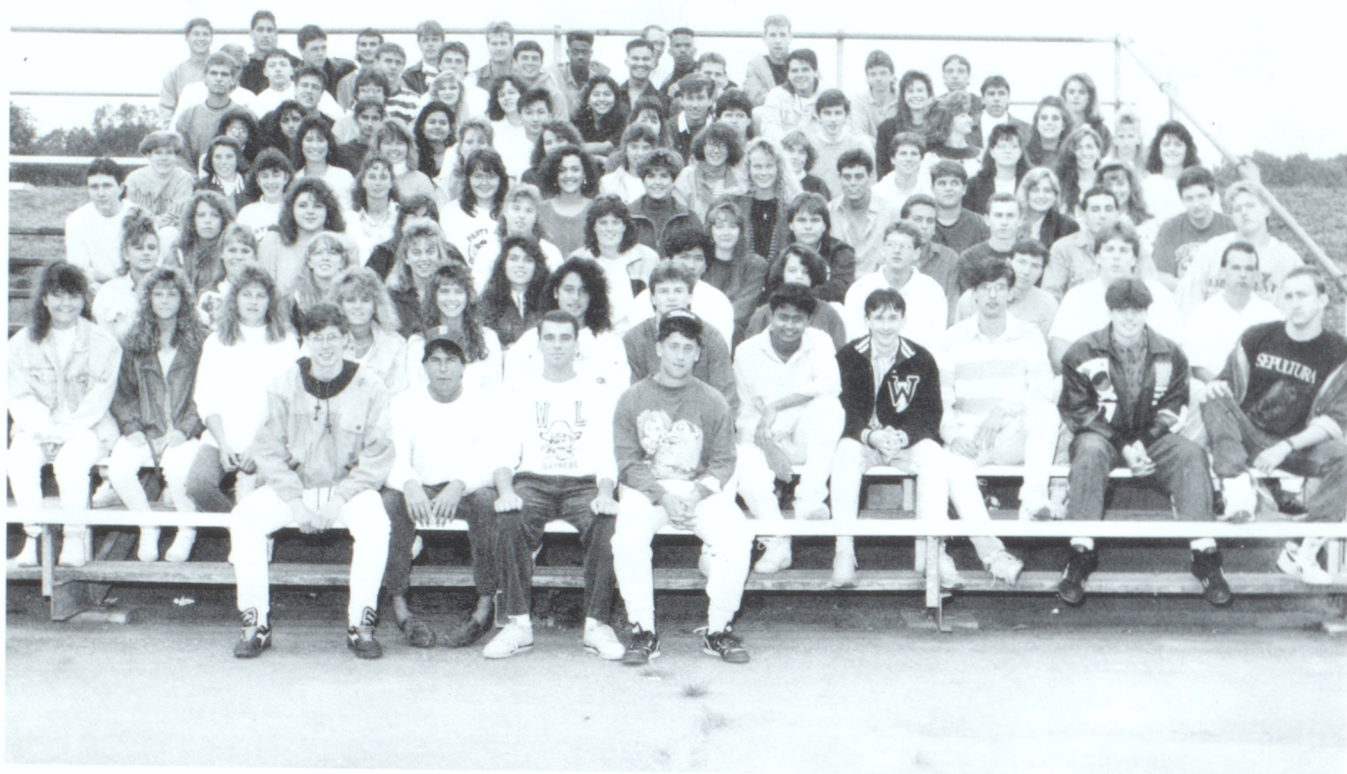

I was surprised to see how well this group worked together in every situation they faced.

The athletes and the scholars,
the artists and the musicians, the leaders and the supporters all together make up a unique group known as the class of 1992.
Intrigued by the results of my investigation so far, I decided to take a closer look.

Throughout the past four years we have all conducted investigations within ourselves. As newcomers, we were willing to be innocent bystanders. Having spent some time observing the actions of our predecessors, we learned how to stand on our own. As we traveled through our high school years, we unraveled the mysteries about ourselves and became more confident about our own identities. Our confidence became apparent in everything we did, both in and out of school.

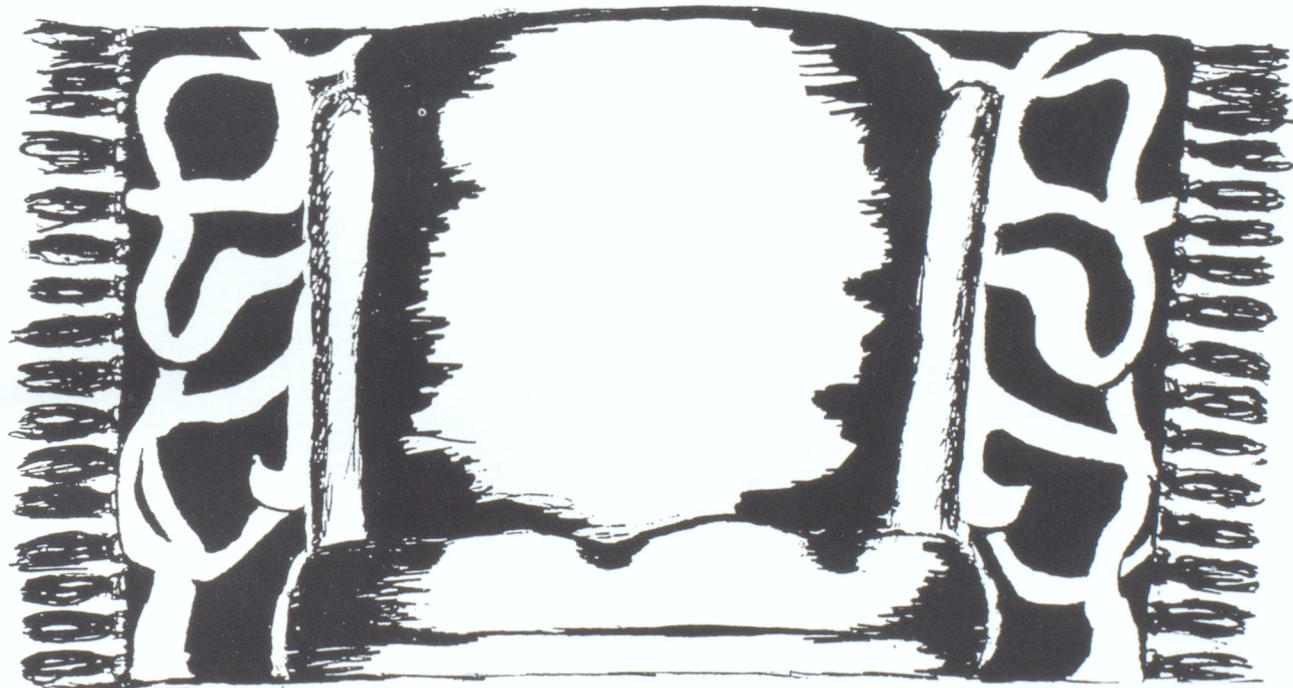

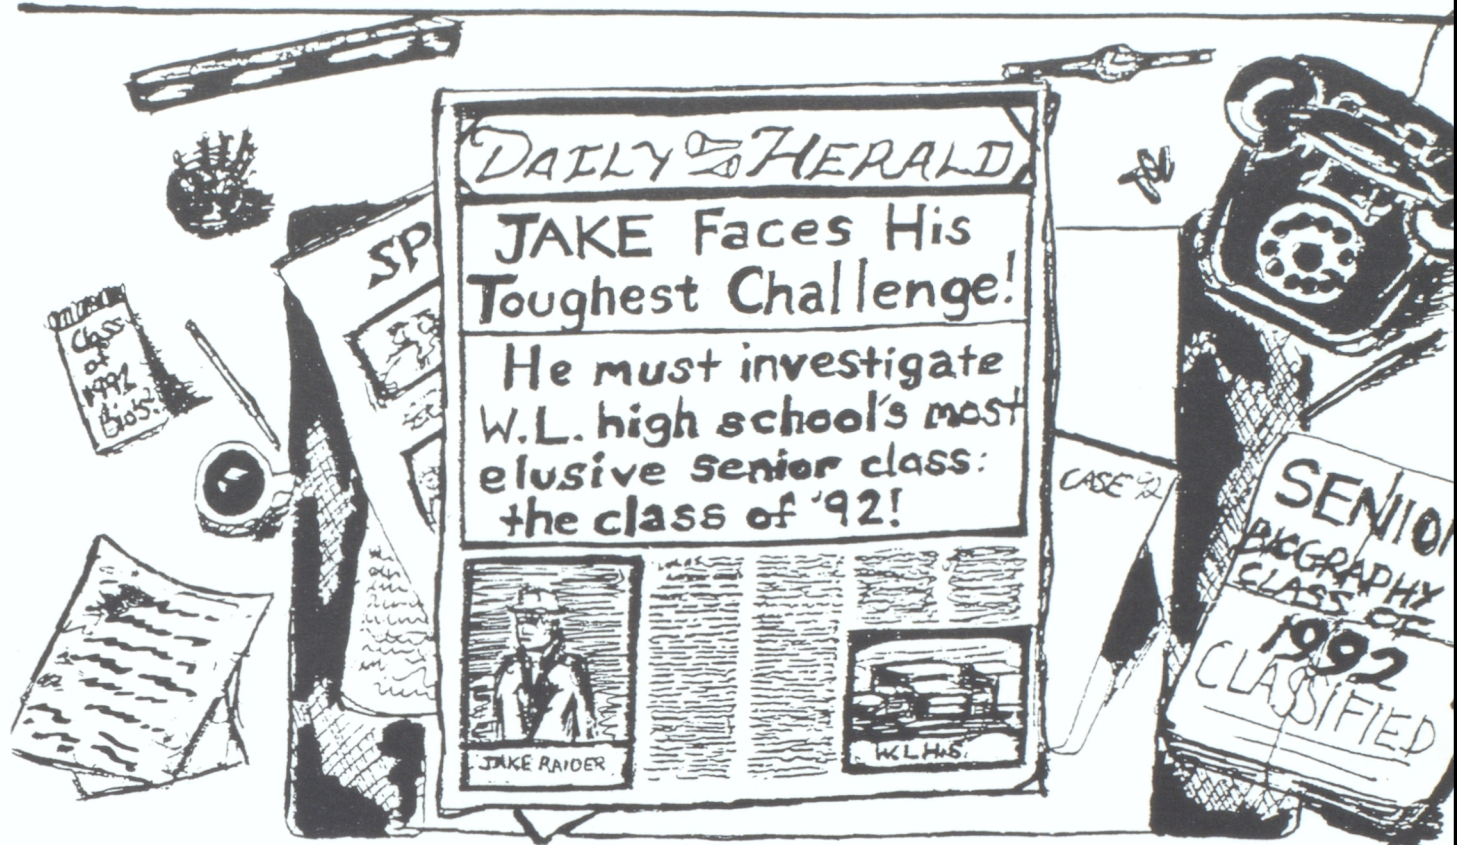

Now we begin our new investigations. The mysteries of our separate futures may make us unsure, but the strength we have found within ourselves makes all of our "impossible dreams" within reach.

Congratulations and good luck to the class of 1992.

With my investigation of each member of the senior class complete, I found they are all well rounded individuals with interests in their academics as well as extracurricular activities. To fully get to know the senior class, I realized one should take a look at the school as a whole. The accomplishments, the activities, the sports, the teachers, the administrators, and the underclassmen help make the senior class what it is.

Throughout my investigation I noticed that the school is not only a school of students and teachers, it is a family that works together for one common goal. A goal that is the foundation of the world the senior class will be entering.

What is a Bargain?

Beware of advertisements which claim huge savings on diamonds. If a diamond is sold at a "bargain" price it is usually because it is an inferior gem. Our membership in the American Gem Society is your assurance of honest value. It costs no more and often less to buy your diamond from a reputable firm that cares about you.
